

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 29, 1905.

same way under the admiring gaze of other girls.

"Yes," said the petite one, "I wish I were going to be married, and absolutely for only one reason." The needles were laid aside and a dozen maids were alert to hear. "Just so that I can get rid of all my old clothes," was the astounding reply, "for positively no other reason."

So the champagne dinner was a great success; the two belles of the occasion being fascinating to the point of distraction in their own particular way.

The heart of many a youth has beat faster than usual since the arrival of the handsome brunette, while her stay will be a brief one, no doubt many hearts will be added to the string that seems to have no end.

A good story is being told about a certain young man whose position with the fair ones is envied by his friends. During the past few weeks he made a journey to a town in the southern part of the State, and while assisting a maid from the platform made a false step and stumbled into the "cattle guard." The result was sundry cuts, patches and bruises, which required the attention of a physician. He declares though that he has been well repaid for all injuries. We wonder how?

For many months the man from the coast has been very devoted to a certain well-known young maid, and in many ways has expressed the condition of his heart. Jewelry followed flowers and books, for the fair one did not have a sweet tooth. While hunting in the Northwest last season he sent as a token of affection a beautiful pleasant mail. The maid is being envied by the fair ones for the saucy turban of many shades. Few know, however, that the gun in this case procured the hat.

A certain youth whom the maids have decided is a "perfect Gibson man," seems to have a particular fondness for brown eyes. During the days of summer his gaze was upon a tall maid, as the winter season approaches he may often be seen with a damsel whose black eyes twinkle, but perhaps they have twinkled in the Green and white were seen in the dining-room, a natural of white chrysanthemums and pink roses forming the centerpiece, with garlands of roses and smilax extending to the corners of the room. The bride wore a handsome going-away gown of dark blue silk, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. During the ceremony an orchestra stationed in the alcove upstairs played the "Swiss" march, and the "Mendelssohn wedding march" as the service was completed. ONLY A SUGGESTION

But It Has Proven of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump, one should eat and drink. But it is not so simple as that. The food that is eaten should be of the right kind, and should be eaten in the right way. The food that is eaten should be of the right kind, and should be eaten in the right way.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach, from abuse and overwork, does not properly digest and assimilate it. Which is the reason so many people remain thin and under weight, the digestive organs do not completely digest the flesh-forming beefsteak, eggs and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these tablets contain the natural pepsines and diastases which every stomach lacks, and by supplying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every kind of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men, women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong irritating drugs, no cathartics nor any harmful ingredients.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the most successful and most widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because they are the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States and Canada as well as Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people strong, plump and well.
